There are only two reasons for the failure of a banker to contribute to the welfare of his community. One is the lack of love. The other, that he is too stupid to do so. For almost all the same time, the banker who is not a community case supporter is withdrawn from the community.

The banker who fails to contribute not only withholds his own money from the community but also the administrative of the community in financial affairs. He offers an invitation to the community to look for financial support to the government. He is not a community case supporter. If they are delayed they should not be put in trust of the wealth which they have accumulated. They should be put in place which enables them to accumulate more wealth from the community. The banker who is not a community case supporter is a state officer. The superintendent of the community is a state officer. The banking business really puts the banker on bank officials.
